

???? How's it end? ?????

The ending is the most important part to any story.
So, I have written the first half of an idea and it will be your job to finish it.

Remember, make sure it's funny, exciting, most importantly,
SURPRISING!

- A brother and sister move from a big city to an old, country farmhouse. While they're exploring the basement of their new home they find that a troll lives behind the washing machine. He is very nervous, but relieved and he says that he's been waiting for them because his kingdom...
- A family dog accidentally wanders too far from home and can't remember his way back. He meets a cool cat that says she knows where he lives, but she'll only guide him there if he helps her with a strange problem. She need this dog to...
- Three ghosts find themselves haunting the same house. They keep getting in each other's way, so decide to divide the house into three equal parts. The oldest ghost gets to roam the living quarters, the youngest, spooks in the basement, and the lady phantom, terrifies the attic. It's all going swimmingly until...
- A young girls always goes to bed with the same routine. It is very important to her. First, she brushes her teeth. Second, she sets her alarm. Third she says goodnight to each of her stuffed animals. Then she takes exactly four sips of water. Always four. Unfortunately tonight, she accidentally took five. When she wakes up, instead of in her bed, she finds herself in...
- While cleaning out his closet, a boy finds a small wooden box all the way in the back. He doesn't recognize it, and isn't sure how to open it. Each side is painted with the word 'Hello' in a different color. After a few failed attempts, the boy discovers that he needs to turn the box and say hello in the order of the colors of the rainbow. When he does it slowly opens an reveals...
